Course Details & Outcomes

Course Description

The focus of this course is on the role of museums and art galleries in the representation of Indigenous peoples and their cultures. The course begins with an introduction to Indigenous material culture, in both pre-contact and contact Australia. Students will also learn about the collection, study and display of Indigenous objects by museums and galleries. In this context disciplines of anthropology, ethnography, archaeology and museology are examined. Particular attention is given to the ways in which we can study objects and their different meanings as they journey from Indigenous contexts to non-Indigenous institutions. Students undertake an excursion to one or more local museums and participate in interactive seminar discussion as part of this course.

Course Learning Outcomes

Course Learning Outcomes
CLO1 : Illustrate the role of Indigenous material culture in representing Indigenous peoples and cultures in the past and present museums and institutions.
CLO2 : Interpret the representation of Indigenous material culture held in museums and collecting institutions.
CLO3 : Analyse the way in which objects change in purpose and function as they move through, and within varying Indigenous cultural and non-Indigenous institutional contexts.
CLO4 : Evaluate methods used by collecting institutions to display Indigenous material culture, and assess their overall effect on various audiences.
CLO5 : Locate, assess, and analyse a variety of sources about Indigenous material culture, and synthesise research findings into a simple, logical and coherent argument.
CLO6 : Communicate research findings and views, individually and in groups, accurately and effectively using a variety of techniques (written, spoken, visual).

Instructions for the Essay Format:

- indicate your topic or the essay question you are answering.
- leave a space and a half between lines.
- use 12 point font.
- leave space in margins for the marker's comments.

Assignment submission Turnitin type

This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students do not see Turnitin similarity reports.

Generative AI Permission Level

Planning/Design Assistance

You are permitted to use generative AI tools, software or services to generate initial ideas, structures, or outlines. However, you must develop or edit those ideas to such a significant extent that what is submitted is your own work, i.e., what is generated by the tool, software or service should not be a part of your final submission. You should keep copies of your iterations to show your Course Authority if there is any uncertainty about the originality of your work.

If your Convenor has concerns that your answer contains passages of AI-generated text or media that have not been sufficiently modified you may be asked to explain your work, but we recognise that you are permitted to use AI generated text and media as a starting point and some traces may remain. If you are unable to satisfactorily demonstrate your understanding of your submission you may be referred to UNSW Conduct & Integrity Office for investigation for academic misconduct and possible penalties.

For more information on Generative AI and permitted use please see here.

Object biography

Assessment Overview

Drawing on the theoretical concepts and ideas presented in the course, students are required to carefully interpret and study an Indigenous object that they have learned about during a museum excursion in an essay (2000 words) that must also draw on additional research.

Students will receive comprehensive written feedback and essays will be marked according to established marking criteria that are made available to students at the beginning of term.

Course Learning Outcomes
